Sugar Cane Harvesters Ready For Florida

J. & L. Engineering Co., of Jacksonville, Fla., has announced the development of two combine harvesters capable of cutting and loading up to 60 tons of sugar cane per hour. Working cooperatively with Florida growers, the firm conducts its development programs under Florida conditions.

One of the units is a track-mounted unit, termed the S-6 Harvester, and is reported to cut and load two rows of cane simultaneously at the rate of 60 tons per hour. Especially suited for recurrent cane, the S-6 has been field tested for over three and one-half years and has recorded an outstanding performance," according to James M. Bower, a company spokesman.

The other unit is a new wheel model harvester, called the S-9, which is reported to cut and load 40 tons of cane per hour, working a single row of cane with each pass. "Large flotation-type tires make the S-9 an ideal machine for adverse conditions, particularly in recurrent cane," said Bower.

U.S. Sugar Corp. of Clewiston developed the basic design of the S-9 with the manufacturing license granted to J. & L. Engineering Co. Puerto Rico tried out one of these harvesters in May of 1967 and after finding it suited to their operation purchased the machine and ordered three more.

The announcement said that both models included "trash removal devices that help prevent the transfer of foreign material into the trailers."

In figures from the Sugar Cane Harvesting Investigation, a station a difference of only 5% less trash is shown after the burn off. 15-25% trash under averaged conditions with a mechanical harvester and an average of 8% using the hand-cutting method.

The 8% figure is a high average judging from the mill's penalty fee being imposed after 6% trash.

"This (trash) is the problem I think everyone is waiting to have solved," said Joe Clayton, Agriculture Engineer on U.S.D.A. Sugar Cane Harvesting Project.

Cost figures for hand-cut cane was $2.55 per ton, but this has gone up, according to Clayton. Cost per ton with a mechanical harvester is $1-$1.25.

Economics is in favor of the machine, he said in quoting last year's hand-cut yield at over 7 million tons.

Donkey Game On For Tonight

By Jim Graham, Lion's Club President
The game is on, the donkeys are warmed up and everything is ready to go. That's the last of the Lions Club regarding their two Big Donkey Ball games this Friday night at 8 P.M. in the Lions Club Ball Park.

The "Pan-handler" Nurses promise bloody revenge from the "Quick-Draw" Police, whom they say, last year, used brutal, unhandcuffed tactics. The Police deny this, however, saying that the Nurses squealed and pinched the Donkey's to make them go faster.

The second best game is between the "Rock 'N' Roll" female teachers and the "Male, skinner" male teachers. The female teachers seemed happy to report that last year, due to the general physical condition of the male teachers, most of them spent 2 weeks following the game in a standing position.

Umpiring these unprecedented, edgewise playoffs will be: Mayor Lorenza "Deadeye" Conner, the "Crazy Legs" Leonard. Other umpires may be announced at the game.

Tickets, which may be purchased from Lions or at the gate, are $1.00 adults and 50c children. The game will be served.

For authorization probably June 7 or 8, Dail said.

An authorization to spend up to $40,000 was approved by the FCD Board supplementing Palm Beach County's program to develop a 53-acre public recreation park at Lake Harbor, near the shore of Lake Okaloosa.

This authorization was made possible by a new law, enacted last year, permitting the FCD to invest some revenues in recreational development.

The Board accepted a suggestion from William W. Storch, chief engineer, and from Dail that small discharges of water be released from the dam to reduce salt water intrusion in the area above the dam.

The FCD will now request the Army Corps of Engineers to start such discharges next week. The discharges will be monitored continuously, and will be reduced whenever possible, or cut off, so long as water supplies can be kept fresh enough.

Salt water has been getting upstream of the dam as a result of heat lockages, it was explained. Fort Myers has intakes upstream of the dam.

Both Senator Elmer Friday and Rep. Ted Randall of Fort Myers have been working closely with the District to find a solution to the salinity problem.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurmon Sensing
EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

In these mixed-up, turbulent times that distort truth and real values, the law-abiding and the respectable suffer and the violent and irresponsible receive praise or kind treatment.

An example of this is the pressure successfully applied on the International Olympic Committee to ban the participation of athletes from the games, even though they had been formally accepted for good sportsmanship, have had to bend before the winds of politics.

The banning of South African sportsmen is a cruel blow to the South African athletes of all colors and races who would have taken part in the games this summer. They have been discriminated against and denied an opportunity to excel in international competition.

The refusal to let the South African compete testifies to the degree to which our world is in disarray. The communist and Afro-African nations never miss an opportunity to force South Africa, a constitutional republic, into the pillory of "world opinion."

If nations are to be barred from the Olympics on the basis of their political records, responsible men can easily think of some prime candidates for banning. The first would be the Soviet Union, the country that holds millions of captive people in its grip — the nation that swallowed up the little states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania and deported millions of men, women and children to Siberia.

Few of the black African nations would be exempt from banning if a strict political behavior rule were applied. Tanzania is a one-party state that gives communists a base for terrorist campaigns against its neighbors. Guinea is a communist dictatorship, as is Congo (Brazzaville). The Republic of the Congo (Kinshasa) is a tyranny with mixed elements of force and tribal rivalry.

Ethiopia is an absolute monarchy where no one has any rights. Almost everywhere one looks on the African continent, one finds cruelty and despotism and backwardness in sub-Saharan Africa. Only in South Africa, Rhodesia and the Portuguese Provinces will one find civilization and the rule of law. These advanced nations and territories are condemned, however, because they will not accept the kind of governmental system that prevails elsewhere in Africa; they will not agree to give up and accept a return of primitivism. That's why the South Africans are banned from the summer Olympics.

The real tragedy is that some supposedly responsible people in Western countries have thought that the South Africans are banned. They mistakenly view this vindictive action against a highly modern country, which spends more than any other African country on social services and education of ALL its people, as a victory for human rights. This reaction only indicates the extent to which logic is ignored in our time.

We see the same phenomenon, with respect to the law enforcement authorities in our own country. For example, when the New York police finally were called in to remove radical students from Columbia University buildings, they didn't get any thanks for a tough and nasty job. On the contrary, Mayor John Lindsay of New York called for "police brutality." He apparently didn't find it expedient to order an investigation into the student groups that ran the red flag up over Columbia, who placed the communist hammer and sickle symbol on black boards, who shouted "Linnies are scum!" and "Linnies are scum!"

The radicals were verbally abused. Mr. Lindsay upheld their right to "disenfranchise."

It is a strange world, really. Apparently academic freedom doesn't include the right of a university to maintain order on campus, hold classes and end student hoodlums. But, in the view of the prevailing "liberals," academic freedom involves tolerance of chaos, wrecking college administration buildings, pulling down bookshelves for barricades, and screaming obscenities at police and students who want to study.

Confusion of basic values is one of the worst things that can happen in a free society. It means that society is being unmoored. This confusion took place at the end of the Roman Empire when the barbarians began to fall on Europe. Nowadays, it often seems that a new Dark Age is beginning, as the police are condemned, universities are terrorized, riots take place in great cities and anti-communist countries such as South Africa are victimized by political extremists. The outlook is grim for the forces of civilization.

There are many permanent buildings that were built for the 1929 fair. In front of one of the most of the city of Providence

After leaving Seville our next stop was Cordoba. We were met by a charming native young woman, who acted as our guide and tried to convince us that Cordoba was a remarkable city. They have a population of over three hundred thousand.

The Guadalquivir River that runs through the city has a Roman bridge across it built by Julius Caesar in 50 A.D. Its patron saint is San Rafael. The guide did admit that sometimes it does not rain for two years and is referred to as the "Frying Pan of Spain." They grow cotton here and iron mines.

At the time of the Arabian rule there were three Mosques in the city. We visited a huge Mosque, the second largest in the world, the largest is in Mecca.

This Mosque has nineteen aisles and almost a thousand double arches. It is hard to describe, because the arches and columns are so close together. The columns are made of jasper, marble and precious stones. There are a number of Catholic Chapels within the Mosque.

When we came out and crossed an open patio the walls were made of stones put up by the Moors. The designs were very pretty, but it was a very dark place, and the light was very dim.

"THE DAMES TOWER" LOCATED IN GRANADA, AL-HAMIRA, IN SPAIN.

Men lived on the first floor and the women on the second. The Sultan had one hundred women in his harem, but only his five favorites lived in the palace. The others were housed nearby.

Vapour baths were given by heating the marble floor and then pouring water on it. The women used to go to a balcony while the women enjoyed the baths.

Since the Arabs came from a desert country, they built many fountains, pools and waterfalls. In the Summer Palace.

Dear Mister Editor: Ed Doolittle gave the fellers at the corner store a real shock Saturday night. Ed, that is on record as again everything the Great Society has ever done, announced that the Administration list is trying to make a move he is agreed with. He had said saw where the General Accounting Office has a crew of 10 men working to find out where the Government money goes.

The GAO, claimed Ed, has a reputation for economy, and if them 150 men can come up with ways to save enough to pay their wages they'll do more than any of them Government agencies has done since Cal Coolidge ordered the White House saddle home sold.

Ed said he had saw where they was $776 in the Federal budget for ever man, woman and child in the country and he ain't received a cent of it and he figured the Government must be waiting to send it with his $3,000 annual wage as soon as his gals to be law. Anyhow, allowed Ed, he hoped this new GAO team would find out what happened to his $776.

Zeke Grubb said he had been thinking about this new $3,000 guaranteed wage and he was wondering if they was fixing to pay a feller the same for not working as for working. Zeke said they had ought to work out a plan where a man would be paid according to the kind of work he don't do. For instance, Zeke said it don't look fair to give a feller the same wage for not bartering as for not burning down stores and apartment buildings. It was far shure, said Zeke, the country was better off paying more for not setting fires than for not cutting hair. Long hair is more in style right now than house burning, was the way Zeke put it.

Bug Hookum said he was agreed with Ed and Zeke, said he had saw in the papers where one bunch of them folks arrested for looting and burning last month had a average of $300 in cash on them, and Bug was wondering if they had started getting their part of that guaranteed wage.

The storekeeper cautioned in to say he was strong in favor of this crew they was setting up to see where our money went. He reported he had saw in the papers where our Government was paying $80 a yard for cotton material that the factory was selling retail for less than 56, and that the Government had give a $7 million contract to the same construction company that the Government was suing for $5 million because of unsatisfactory work they had done on their last contract.

I wasn't prepared, Mister Editor, to quote no faggots at the session, but I went home and said my prayers for that new GAO investigating team.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

The Smart Place To Go...

For Good Things To Eat!

225 West Canal St. - Belle Glade

President Of Week

Interact president, Tommy Altman, is the only Junior who is a Club president. His club is now busy making a basketball roster to be placed by the clock in the gym.

Most of his activities are related to sports. He quarterbacked for the Rams during football season and basketball placed first in the Western Division of the Suncoast Conference in golf. He is also a member of the Student Council.

When Tommy was asked how he thought the prom was, he said, "The theme was good and we have a good class so it made a good prom."

Next year as a Senior Tommy will probably continue to be an active leader at Belle Glade High School.

God Watches From Above

By Carolyn Leonard
On a windy, moonlit night, Where the sea around us lies, We can feel the mighty might, Of God watching from above.

We can feel His mighty hand Protect us as we look on, While the wind starts blowing sand, All around our little "island"

When the sand begins to fly, And nothing seems very clear, Some forget the one on high, Who is watching from above.

How we cling to each other, How the fear and dread do come, Why, just-calling to another, Who is watching from above.

How easy do we forget His great powers we once felt As if he had never met The One watching from above.

But then He whom we evade, Alas, does not evade us, But loves all that He has made, Creator watching from above.

In His love He brings us back, That wonderful warmth of, Knowing That His greatness does not lack, His guiding hand from above.

Big Mouth

Juniors, We're sorry the weather man didn't cooperate. Eddie P., we hear that you gave the P.D.Q. a lot of business this weekend. How about that?

Allan S. now what did the lady at the P.D.Q. say? It seems the rain didn't wet anybody's spirit at the beach? Sounds like they had fun at Juniors?

The Prom—It's Over

It's over. All the rented tuxes are returned, all the evening dresses put away, all the tired and sleepy kids are back in school. . . yes, it's over. And as expected, it's a night that we will never forget, no matter how hard we try. Yes, we'll remember all of it, our surprises at learning the theme was "A Summer Place", trying to eat corn-on-the-cob at the banquet without losing our dignity, singing happy birthday to Pam Whitlock, and the green cherries and frozen vanilla waters in the sherbert, and then the Prom and doing some of the out of the swing as Mr. Averill tries to take your picture, rocking out to Mr. Chaffin and his orchestra, waving at your parents in the bleachers, and tripping over the refreshment stand for a glass of punch — and for the less ambitious ones, there was fighting over chairs on the sidelines, but all was not over at the midnight hour, no indeed, things were just beginning, as kids moved into the Elks Club for the breakfast. There they found the band, the 25th Hour, and an array of food.

Yes, there were two hours of food and music, . . . then it was home to bed, but not for long! For at dawn, everyone hit the beaches. And so ended the 1968 Junior-Senior Prom.

Clubs

On May 14, the Art Club went on a trip to the Norto Art Gallery in West Palm Beach. They also visited the Science Museum and Planetarium. This was the last art club trip this year.

Officers for the 1968-1969 year were elected. They are as follows: President, Judy Seiser; Vice-President, Norm Rogers; Secretary-Treasurer, Susan Hughes; and Student Council Representative, Pat Burger.

JUNIOR CIVITAN

The Thirteenth have been ordered and are expected to arrive in two weeks.

The club is going to pull up a "HOME OF THE RAMS" sign on the front of the gym wall before school is out. The members of the Junior Civitan Club are also working on the sign that will be presented with the other clubs during an assembly soon.

Journalism class visits the Herald. Receiving instruction on live coverage are Margaret Cross, Jill Brown, and Margaret Thompson.

Talent Show Monday

The Student Council Talent Show for Club-of-the-Year will be held Monday. Clubs participating will perform their talents and the minutes allocated to each will be according to the number involved. The winning club will receive points toward Club-of-the-Year. The winning club will be announced at Class Night.

Whittemore Places 3rd

Mark Whittemore participated in the Florida State Track meet on May 11 at Gainesville. Mark came in third in the state in the 220 yard dash for Class A schools. While at the University of Florida, Mark visited the Florida coach, Jimmy Carter. They discussed Mark's plans for next year.

Guidance Department Speaks

RAMPAGE: As Guidance Counselor, what are your duties?

MR. LUKE: Generally, to work with students directly and to help them solve social, emotional, and school problems. This includes taking care of the present and planning for the future.

RAMPAGE: What problems do most students face concerning school policies, grades, etc.?

MR. LUKE: As far as grades are concerned, most students admit the biggest problem is that they have bad study habits. A minority say that work is too difficult. As far as school policies, not many have complaints. The majority feel that the school policies are set up for their benefit. They usually try to go along with them.

RAMPAGE: How can students contact you to discuss their problems?

MR. LUKE: The idea of a guidance department is to have someone outside the classroom to help the students. A student should be able to contact me at any time in my office.

RAMPAGE: What questions concerning plans for college do students ask you?

MR. LUKE: They sometimes ask information about a college, such as its size, location, cost, tuition, provisions for financial aid and how to go about obtaining it, and how to apply for college.

RAMPAGE: What do you feel is the best way to prepare for the change to college and how should a student plan his courses to better prepare himself?

MR. LUKE: As a whole, favorable. Our school would rank favorably with a majority of schools. Almost a third of this year's senior class of 150 had a "B" average or more. We have, generally 50-60% who enter college. Compared with most schools this is very good. As a rule, our students who enter college do exceptionally well.

RAMPAGE: What advice can you give to all students concerning their high school careers?

MR. LUKE: I would say, generally, that most jobs require a high school education. The more technical the job, the more education or training is required. It is important that a person decide on his goal in life during high school and work toward it.

Eulogy To A Leader

By Carol Betts
A brave man was killed one night. A man who had done many things. . . Had guided the Negroes toward equality. Had been a Baptist minister. Had won the Nobel Prize for peace. . . And now, in the spring of his thirty-ninth year, Lay dead, with a sniper's bullet in his neck. A great light was extinguished by that bullet. And the darkness is not the end—merely a beginning. For this was a light other men followed. Men who now return to darkness. But out of the darkness will come a new leader, a new light. Yes, one not nearly so wise. One filled with vengeance and hate. And the long road to equality. Down which, the slain leader had once tried, "Peace" will soon be strewn with blood.
